SOCIETY OF PETROLEUM ENGINEERS

EXPLORE THE BENEFITS OF SPE.

The Society of Petroleum Engineers' primary aim—to collect, disseminate, and exchange technical and professional information—is achieved through electronic products and services, conferences and exhibitions, publications, continuing education courses, sections and member service activities. More than 60,000 engineers, managers, scientists and educators in more than 100 countries share the latest information on exploration, drilling, production and management of energy resources.
